

Our Showcase Cluster

Just a few miles South West of London lies a collection of England's most picturesque golf courses.

With their undulating fairways, flanked by purple swathes of heather and towering Scots Pines, and slick, manicured greens, the likes of St George's Hill, Sunningdale and the Berkshire provide a testing, but tranquil setting for a round of golf.

With such close connections to the Capital, you are never short of things to do off the golf course here, with London's sights and attractions just a short train or car journey away.

For those in search of a more quaint experience, the historic towns of Windsor and Guildford can be enjoyed on foot, or on the water.
